

IMAGINiT Technologies Showcases the Value of Connecting Enterprise Data at Autodesk University 2025

BALTIMORE, MD — September 8, 2025 — At Autodesk University 2025 \(AU\): The Design and Make Conference, IMAGINiT Technologies, a division of Rand Worldwide, will demonstrate how connecting enterprise data systems enables construction, manufacturing, AECO firms, utilities, and government organizations to accelerate their digital maturity and harness the full potential of data. AU 2025 takes place September 16–18 in Nashville, TN.

IMAGINiT experts will highlight how enterprise integration, system migrations, task automation, digital data collection, and workforce upskilling combine to improve efficiency, spark innovation, and increase organizational agility through the right balance of people, process, and technology. Whether presenting AU sessions, sharing best practices on data connectivity, or meeting attendees at booth #205, IMAGINiT invites conference participants to explore new strategies for driving business performance.

“Autodesk University is always a valuable opportunity to reconnect with customers, understand the challenges they face in today’s AI-driven world, and collaborate on shaping the road ahead,” said Bill Zavadil, president and chief operating officer, IMAGINiT Technologies. “Data sits at the center of all AI and modernization initiatives, and our team is proud to help organizations move beyond digital transformation as a concept to actually delivering measurable, real-world results.”
